SECOND RECITAL

Of the Wheeling Philharmonic
Quartette

AT EGERTER HALL LAST NIGHT.

The Audience Enraptured by the Harmony of Sweet Sounds which this Famous Musical Organization Produced—One of the Most Artistic Performances Ever Given in Wheeling by Home Artists.

The Philharmonic Quartette gave its second recital this season at Egertter hall last evening to an audience that, if anything, was more delighted than the one which heard the initial performance of this organization two weeks ago. And it could not well be otherwise when the interpretation of such composers as Haydn and Mozart is in the hands of such skillful performers as Prof. Schockey, Spell, Blumenberg and Mr. Fred Meyer.

The programme offered last night was one of unusual excellence, its execution stamping the quartette as the most artistic musical organization of its character, made up of home artists, that has ever appeared before a Wheeling audience. There was actually nothing that could be desired in the finished and conscientious work of the four numbers that were given. This city certainly has reason to be proud of the Philharmonic.

The work of the quartette is divided as follows: Violin and piano-forte, Prof. Herman M. Schockey; violin and flute, Prof. E. W. Spell; violin and viola, Prof. Edward Blumenberg; cello, Mr. Fred Meyer. The programme given last evening follows:

1. Quartet No. 24.....Mozart
(a) Allegro.
(b) Andantino.
(c) Adagio.
(d) Allegro.
2. Salon Quartet, op. 25, Arr. by W. Popp
Violin, Flute, Cello, Piano-forte.
Intermission.
3. Kaiser Quartet, op. 76, No. 3.....Haydn
Poco adagio cantabile.
4. Quartet, No. 15.....Mozart
(a) Allegro.
(b) Romanza (Andante).
(c) Menuetto (Allegretto).
(d) Rondo (Allegro).

Printed with the programme was a history of the origin of the quartette, which will be of interest to the general readers of the Intelligencer as well as those who have a technical knowledge of music, and who were not present to enjoy the treat.

"The quartette originated with the invention of four-part harmony but it was long before a composition of four instruments came to be regarded as a distinct and worthy means for the expression of musical ideas. In the quartette every component part stands out independently according to its character, but so modestly that all co-operate to produce a whole which is never at any moment out of view.

Theoretically in a perfect quartette there should be no principal part, but each should be of equal interest and importance. It was Haydn who gave to the quartette its characteristic form. Best fitted for the expression of ideas of a certain delicacy and refinement, it became the spontaneous expression of his musical nature, and his fertile invention and unerring judgment concerning the relative powers and capacities of each instrument caused the quartette to become one of the most beautiful productions of German art."

Beethoven Concert.
Last night the Beethoven singing society, under the direction of Prof. H. Hartmann, gave a very enjoyable concert at their hall, corner of Fourteenth and Main streets. The numbers received were enthusiastically received by an appreciative audience, and the society and Meister's orchestra won the warmest praise.

Mrs. Kate Fitzgerald and Mr. Charles Zulauf were down for several solos and duets, and they acquitted themselves in their usual acceptable manner. Mrs. Fitzgerald's "Leopore" was very pleasingly sung, and in the duet "Excelsior," with Mr. Zulauf, she met all the requirements of the part. Mr. Zulauf's familiar "Two Grandsons" was sung in that gentleman's well known exquisite style. The concert was followed by a ball.

In the Circuit Court.

In Part II of the circuit court yesterday, Judge Paull, the case of the state vs. Elizabeth and W. T. Embien, convicted in the criminal court of renting houses for immoral purposes, came up on a writ of error. The writ was refused and the judgment of the lower court affirmed. In another case the same parties were convicted of misdemeanor in the criminal court. The writ of error asked for was granted as to W. T. Embien, but refused as to Elizabeth Embien.

In Part I, Judge Campbell, in the case of J. T. Stone vs. F. W. Baumer and others, in chancery, the case was set for trial May 18, and Mr. Baumer is made the plaintiff.

Phillip G. Schule and others vs. Clarence Schule, decree entered confirming sale.
